

Please give some sober thought to the "incredible shrinking American Press" and the manner in which ownership concentrated in few hands results in skewed, censored information available to the American people. It not only discourages debate of crucial issues, but it means that many crucial issues are not even brought before the public unless they serve profit "needs" of the mega media owners.